STRAY DOG QUALITY

Stray Dog Strength products are designed and built with the highest standard of quality in the industry. Our products are backed by 22 years of real world research and development. All of our products are specifically designed to withstand the volume and abuse of institutional sports performance facility's.

1

DESIGN

The cornerstone of our product design process starts with setting requirements for the product and identifying potential failure modes. The product is then fully designed in our 3D CAD program to ensure that the design meets the product requirements. Then a physical prototype is built and tested in our R&D center to validate the design.

2

CUSTOMIZATION

Stray Dog Strength products are customized and personalized for you. We offer a wide range of color and logo options to personalize your equipment. We also offer custom engineered solutions to turn your equipment ideas into a reality. Your facility is unique and so should your equipment.

3

MANUFACTURING

Stray Dog Strength products are manufactured in a state of the art manufacturing facility in Columbus Ohio, that first opened its doors in 1911. We utilized a computer aided manufacturing (CAM) process to ensure all parts manufactured to meet our strict criteria. Our products are made out of USA steel in the USA.

4

WARRANTY

Because we cut no corners in our design and manufacturing process we stand behind all Stray Dog Strength products with our industry leading warranty.

- Lifetime warranty on all welds and frames
- 1 Year warranty on all moving parts
- 60 Day warranty on all upholstery and pads

RACK SYSTEM

Stray Dog Strength was the original pioneer of the modern day rack system, introducing our first rack in 1999. Our racks are build with our industry first modular design that allows parts to be interchangeable across all rack series and rack types. All Stray Dog Strength attachments and machine add-ons are compatible across all rack series including our Auxiliary Training Racks (ATR). Stray Dog Strength racks are next gen compatible meaning parts, attachments and accessories never go our of date.
